

ROLL OF RECKONING II
CIARAN KENNEDY vs
SAVIOR HAWKINS
BLACK LIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP

The camera opens backstage.

Savior Hawkins and Ciaran Kennedy sit across from each other at the Roll of Reckoning table. The Black Light Championship rests around Kennedy's waist. Neither man says a word.

Bert McDaniels: "Welcome to Roll of Reckoning II."

"Last time we did this, the dice gave us the Venice Street Fight between Killjoy and the man who is now CFW World Champion, Adam Stryker. It became one of the wildest matches we've ever had."

ROLL OF RECKONING II
CIARAN KENNEDY vs
SAVIOR HAWKINS
BLACK LIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP

The camera stays on Hawkins and Kennedy.

"And tonight, we do it again."

"These two have been at war for months and have given us some of the most must-see matches in CFW. Ciaran Kennedy finally took the Black Light Championship from Savior Hawkins, but he did it after introducing Hawkins to the ring bell."

"And since then, Kennedy has aligned himself with The Seers."

Kennedy glances across the table at Hawkins.

"Now the Black Light Championship is on the line again, but neither man gets to decide what kind of fight this will be."

On the table between them sits a tray of dice.

"Sixteen possible match types. Anything from a standard wrestling match to an Exploding Ring Match. No choosing. No negotiating. The dice decide."

A brief pause.

"Ciaran Kennedy. Savior Hawkins. Black Light Championship."

"Their rivalry is about to go somewhere neither one of them can control."

The official reaches toward the dice.

"Let's roll."

The official gives the rules one final time. One roll. Sixteen possible matches. The die drops into the wooden roll box, rattles against the sides, and settles.

Everyone looks down.

ROLL OF RECKONING II
CIARAN KENNEDY vs
SAVIOR HAWKINS
BLACK LIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP

THE STIPULATION DRAW

THE BATTLEGROUND IS SET

Last Man Standing Match

STIPULATION 07 / 16

A survival fight built around punishment, exhaustion, and refusal to stay down.

HOW TO WIN

Win by leaving the opponent unable to answer a ten-count.

The official reaches down into the roll box.

Official: "Seven. Last Man Standing Match."

Kennedy and Hawkins stare across the table at each other, neither one giving anything away.

Official: "No pinfalls. No submissions. No disqualifications. The only way to win is to leave your opponent unable to answer a ten-count."

The room goes quiet.

Bert McDaniels: "Well... there it is."

"Last Man Standing. SpeedRun 10."

Kennedy and Hawkins keep their eyes locked across the table. Neither one moves.

There's history there. There's anger there.

And now, when they meet again, one of them is going to have to be left unable to stand.